

LET'S MAKE YOUR "GOLDEN DAYS" GOLDEN WITH EASE.

Handling it now beats handling later

Instead of focusing on the impending event of death, final-stage planning can encourage subtle and sure acceptance. When plans are already in place, there is less distraction and uncertainty from grief.

The Arranger along with his/her family, can clearly plan how the final resting will be enacted, on his/her own terms.

Early Planning can mean a better Service

This will allow you to properly consider the options available and their affordability. Whether you choose to be buried or cremated, whether you prefer to have a service at home or at our chapel or any special request put forward, there is always no time quite like the present. Pre-Arranging a funeral service means you can have exactly what you want without your family guessing. Tempers sure can flare when one person thinks they know you better than the other, and who knows what you would like better than yourself?

Can I Afford it?

Pre-arranging and pre-funding can and will prevent your family from incurring additional debt.

It gives you (and interested family members) the opportunity to make small payments towards the celebration of life service you desire. Choose an existing plan, or let our consultant tailor one to your satisfaction. Planning ahead lets you part ways with your family, not your savings.
